Organisation of the written test

- Participating schools will hold the examination on their premises for their own students.
- Not sitting the exam on the due day will automatically lead to disqualification.
- Dictionaries are permitted.
- The timing of the exam is at the school's discretion, providing it is on the requested date.
- The examiner's decision is final.
- A classification into two different categories A and B will apply:
 - Category A: Students without special ties to France, or the French language and culture.
 - Category B: Students with a connection to the French Language; (refer to the Category B form)

All documents will be sent to the schools in due course. Disclosing exam papers before the exam takes place will lead to automatic disqualification.

Laureates and prizes

Certificates will be awarded to all students sitting the written exam.

The three best Category A students from each level and the best Category B student in each level will be invited to the prize-giving ceremony which will take place on Friday, 25th October 2024 to receive their prize.

The list of laureates will be displayed on the Alliance Française's website.

Category B identification form

Please copy this page and send one copy for each Category B student you wish to enrol.

Description of Category B students:

Native French speaking students and students who speak or have spoken French as their mother tongue, all students who have lived in a country where French is widely used, students who attended a school in which French was the medium of instruction and students whose parents were born in a French speaking country or territory are considered as being a Category B student.
All other students are Category A students.

Category B candidates are identified by the following:

1. Themselves
2. Their teacher
3. The Examination Commission
4. The markers of the oral examination component of the Alliance Française exams.

NB: If one of these four indicates that the candidate should compete in Category B, the candidate will be classified as a Category B candidate by the Alliance Française de Perth.
